

The American Antitrust Institute

Biographies of Speakers

John M. Connor is a professor of industrial economics at Purdue University in Indiana. He holds a bachelor's degree in mathematics from Boston College and a Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin. From 1979 to 1983, he was head of Food Manufacturing Research in the Economic Research Service of USDA. Dr. Connor specializes in empirical research in industrial economics and antitrust policy; since 1997 the focus of his research has been the competitive analysis of international cartels. He is the author of 13 books and monographs and more than 200 other scholarly publications articles in economics and law. His book, Global Price Fixing, received two national writing awards in 2002 and 2003. A revised edition of Global Price Fixing appeared in 2007. Dr. Connor is an advisor to the American Antitrust Institute and to law firms in cartel cases.

Kenneth Davidson became a Senior Fellow of the American Antitrust Institute in 2005. Previously, he was an attorney at the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) for 25 years where he supervised many merger-related tasks, including the drafting and enforcement of premerger notification rules and co-authoring the FTC divestiture study, A Study of the Commission's Merger Remedies. He has written three books, including Megamergers, Corporate America's Billion-Dollar Takeovers, and has more than 60 other publications, including 16 commentaries that are posted on the AAI website. He has held full-time appointments at three American law schools and taught at foreign universities. He was resident advisor to the Indonesian competition commission from 2002 to 2003. He has written and has consulted on the development of competition agencies in a number of other countries in Southeast Asia, Africa, South America, the Caribbean, and countries of the former Soviet Union. He also consults on antitrust implications of mergers that affect the United States.

John Fingleton became Chief Executive of the Office of Fair Trading (UK) in October 2005 for a five year term. He had previously been Chairperson of the Irish Competition authority since May 2000. Fingleton is Chair of the Association of Competition Economists, and represents the UK on the Competition Committee of the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). He also sits on the board of several journals that specialise in competition policy. Fingleton studied economics at Trinity College, Dublin and Nuffield College Oxford. He taught economics at Trinity College, Dublin from 1991 to 2000 and held visiting positions at the Universite Libre de Bruxelles (1995) and the Graduate School of Business at the University of Chicago (1998-2000).

Albert A. Foer is President of the American Antitrust Institute. A graduate of the University of Chicago Law School, where he was an Associate Editor of the Law Review, he also holds a masters degree in political science from Washington University and an A.B. from Brandeis University (magna cum laude). Before founding the AAI, Foer practiced law with Hogan & Hartson and Jackson & Campbell, both in Washington, DC; was a senior executive of the FTC Bureau of Competition for six years, rising to Acting Deputy Director; and was CEO of a mid-sized chain of retail stores for twelve years. He has played leadership roles in a variety of trade and non-profit associations, has published numerous articles about regulatory and competition policy issues, and has taught antitrust on an adjunct basis at Johns Hopkins and George Washington universities.

Eleanor M. Fox is the Walter J. Derenberg Professor of Trade Regulation at New York University School of Law, where she teaches antitrust, European Union law, international and comparative competition policy, and torts. Her scholarship is in the area of competition, trade, economic development, and global governance. She was a partner and is of counsel at the New York law firm Simpson Thacher & Bartlett. She served as a member of the International Competition Policy Advisory Committee to the Attorney General and the Assistant Attorney General for Antitrust of the United States Department of Justice (1997-2000) (President Clinton) and as a Commissioner on President Carter's National Commission for the Review of Antitrust Laws and Procedures (1978-79). Professor Fox is a member of the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law and is a Director of the American Foreign Law Association. She is a member of the advisory board of CUTS – Competition, Investment and Economic Regulation, an NGO in India. She is a frequent visitor and lecturer at the Competition Directorate of the European Commission. She has advised numerous younger antitrust jurisdictions, including South Africa, Indonesia, Egypt, Russia and the Central and Eastern European nations.

Michal Gal is Co-Director of the Forum on Law and Markets at the Faculty of Law, Haifa University, Israel. She was a Visiting Professor at NYU, Georgetown, University of Melbourne, and Universidade Católica Portuguesa. Dr. Gal's scholarship focuses on competition law and policy. She is the author of the book Competition Policy for Small Market Economies (Harvard University Press, 2003) and the main author and co-editor of The Law and Economics of Israeli Competition Law (Nevo, 2007). She also published many scholarly articles on competition law issues. Dr. Gal has won grants and prizes for her research, including the Zeltner award for young researcher in 2004 and the GIF for young scientist, 2006. She has also won several teaching awards. Professor Gal served as a consultant to several international organizations (including OECD, UNCTAD) on issues of competition law in small and developing economies and is a non-governmental advisor of the International Competition Network (ICN). She also advised several small economies on the framing of their competition laws. In addition, she is an advisory board member of the American Antitrust Institute (AAI), the Institute for Consumer Antitrust Studies (Chicago), and an executive board member of the Academic Society for Competition Law (ASCOLA).

Ilene Gotts is a Partner at Wachtell, Lipton, Rosen & Katz where she represents and counsels clients on a range of antitrust matters, particularly those relating to mergers and acquisitions. Gotts began her career as a staff attorney in the Bureau of Competition of the Federal Trade Commission in conduct and merger investigations. In 1995, Gotts served as the President of the Washington Council of Lawyers. She was the Chair of the Antitrust and Trade Regulation Section of the Federal Bar Association from 1995-1997 and Chair of the Antitrust Section of the New York State Bar Association in 2005-2006. An active participant in the Section of Antitrust Law of the American Bar Association, Gotts is currently the Chair-Elect. She previously served as the International Officer and on the Council. Gotts is regularly recognized as one of the world's top antitrust lawyers, including being selected in the 2006, 2007 and 2008 Editions of The International Who's Who of Business Lawyers, as one of the top 15 global competition lawyers, in the first tier ranking of Chambers USA Guide, and as one of the "leading individuals" in PLC Which Lawyer Yearbook 2007 Edition. Gotts edited both the second and third editions of the ABA's treatise on the Antitrust Merger Review Process and has had published over 120 articles on antitrust issues relating to mergers and acquisitions and Hart-Scott-Rodino compliance. She also is a frequent lecturer on antitrust topics. She serves on the advisory boards of Antitrust and Trade Regulation Report, Antitrust Counselor, and Antitrust Report.

Professor Thomas (Tim) Greaney is Chester A. Myers Professor of Law and Director of the Center for Health Law Studies at Saint Louis University School of Law. He is co-author of the nation's leading health law casebook, Health Law: Cases, Materials and Problems (6th edition); and a treatise and hornbook on health law, all published by Thomson/West. This year Professor Greaney was named as Jay Healy Health Law Professor of the Year by the American Society of Law, Medicine and Ethics. Before joining the Saint Louis University faculty, he served as Assistant Chief of the Department of Justice, Antitrust Division, supervising health care antitrust litigation. He has also been a Fulbright Fellow studying European Community competition law in Brussels, Belgium; and has been a visiting scholar at Universite d'Orleans in Orleans France, Seton Hall University, and the University of Minnesota. He has served as an advisor to the Federal Trade Commission, several state attorneys general and commissioners of insurance and to private parties. Professor Greaney received his B.A magna cum laude from Wesleyan University and his J.D. from Harvard Law School. He is a member of the AAI Advisory Board.

Wu Hanhong is the Professor of Economics at School of Economics at Renmin University of China (RUC). He also is Director of the Research Center of Industrial Economy and Competition Policy of RUC. He earned his Ph.D. in Economics at RUC in 1994. Professor Wu was also a senior visiting scholar to the Catholic University of Louvain in Belgium and the Georgetown University in US; a member of All China Foreign Economics Institute; the secretary-in-chief of Beijing Foreign Economics Institute; as well as a member of the expert group responsible for reviewing and revising China's Anti-Monopoly Law. Professor Wu's major researching fields include industrial organization and competition policy. He has presided over and participated in many state-level and provincial-level projects, and has published dozens of thesis on industrial economy analysis and competition policy, with the representative works including The Theory on Western Oligopolistic Market and the Enactment of Competition Law for Chinese Market, The Monopolistic Economics, Theories on Industrial Organization, etc. He was also the editor-in-chief of the book series "Industrial Economy and Competition Policy", and had taken charge and participated in translating a number of academic works on foreign industrial economy analysis and competition policy.

Michael Hausfeld, one of the country's top civil litigators, is the Senior Partner of Hausfeld LLP. Hausfeld's career has included some of the largest and most successful class actions in the fields of human rights, discrimination and antitrust law. Hausfeld has a long record of successful litigation in the antitrust field, on behalf of both individuals and classes, in cases involving monopolization, tie-ins, exclusive dealings and price fixing. He is or has been co-lead counsel in antitrust cases against manufacturers of genetically engineered foods, managed healthcare companies, bulk vitamin manufacturers, technology companies and international industrial cartels. He is actively involved in ongoing investigations into antitrust cases abroad, and was the only private lawyer permitted to attend and represent the interests of consumers worldwide in the 2003 closed hearings by the EU Commission in the Microsoft case.

R. Shyam Khemani is an economist at Micra where he specializes in providing applied economic analysis, litigation support and economic research services to law firms, corporations, government and trade associations on complex competition and regulatory matters. Until recently, he was Advisor, Competition Policy, in the Financial & Private Sector Development Vice-Presidency of the World Bank Group, Washington D.C. He has advised governments and business in over two dozen industrial and developing countries on various competition, regulation, micro-industrial economics, and international trade issues. During 2000-2002 he resided in Paris, France, where he served as Director, Law & Economics Consulting Group (LECG) European operations and was involved in policy and case specific issues in different jurisdictions, including the European Union. Previously he worked with the Canadian Competition Bureau where he was Chief Economist and Director of Economics & International Affairs, and earlier, Adviser on merger policy. He is a member of the Advisory Board of the Bureau of National Affairs' Antitrust and Trade Regulation Report, co-Director of the International Bar Association's Global Forum on Competition, and serves on various working groups of the American Bar Association, the International Chambers of Commerce, the International Competition Network and CUTS-an NGO based in India. He has served on the Faculty of Business Administration and Commerce at the University of British Columbia, and several other Canadian universities.

Chiegun Kim is Minister-Counsellor of Korean Embassy in Washington DC. He has broad experience in enforcing competition law in Korea Fair Trade Commission (KFTC), including mergers, cartel, abuse of market dominant power. He also revised Korean competition law several times as division director of competition policy division. He had worked as a visiting expert in OECD in Paris from March 1999 until February 2002. He earned his bachelor degree in Yonsei University, Korea (1980). He studied Economics for Master course in the Kansas State University (1989) and got Ph.D in Economics in the University of Oklahoma (1994).

William E. Kovacic was designated to serve as Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission on March 30, 2008, by President George W. Bush. Kovacic was previously sworn in as a Commissioner in January 2006, following his nomination by the President and confirmation by the U.S. Senate. Prior to his appointment as FTC Commissioner, Kovacic was the E.K. Gubin Professor of Government Contracts Law at George Washington University Law School, where he began to teach in 1999. He was the FTC's General Counsel from 2001 through the end of 2004. Kovacic earlier worked at the Commission from 1979 to 1983, first with the Bureau of Competition's Planning Office and later as an attorney advisor to former Commissioner George W. Douglas. After leaving the FTC in 1983, Kovacic was an associate with the Washington, DC, office of Bryan Cave, where he practiced in the firm's antitrust and government contracts departments, until joining the George Mason University School of Law in 1986. Earlier in his career, he spent one year on the majority staff of the Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monopoly of the U.S. Senate Committee on the Judiciary, which was chaired by Senator Philip A. Hart. Since 1992, Kovacic has served as an adviser on antitrust and consumer protection issues to the governments of Armenia, Benin, Egypt, El Salvador, Georgia, Guyana, Indonesia, Kazakhstan, Mongolia, Morocco, Nepal, Panama, Russia, Ukraine, Vietnam, and Zimbabwe. Kovacic graduated with a bachelor's degree from Princeton University in 1974, and received his J.D. from Columbia University in 1978. He lives in Virginia, with his wife, Kathryn Fenton.

Robert H. Lande, the Venable Professor of Law at the University of Baltimore, is a Director, co-founder, and Senior Fellow of the American Antitrust Institute. Lande has worked on many projects of concern to the AAI, including Illinois Brick reform, the merger incipiency doctrine, the Microsoft case, the BP/Arco case and many other mergers, international antitrust issues, and a wide variety of consumer choice issues and collusion issues. A graduate of Harvard University (J.D., M.P.P.) and Northwestern University (B.A.), he has served in the FTC's Bureau of Competition and was associated with Jones, Day, Reavis & Pogue in Washington.

Ryan W. Marth is an attorney in the Minneapolis office of Robins, Kaplan, Miller & Ciresi L.L.P. Marth's practice focuses on complex antitrust litigation and counseling. Currently, he is one of the lead attorneys for a nationwide class of merchants that is challenging the fee-setting practices and exclusionary practices of Visa, MasterCard, and their member banks. Prior to joining the firm, he served as a law clerk to Hon. Helen M. Meyer of the Minnesota Supreme Court. Marth received his J.D. magna cum laude from the University of Minnesota in 2003 and earned a Bachelor of Arts magna cum laude from St. Olaf College in 1999. His studies also include a Fulbright Scholarship to the University of Oslo, where he studied the effect of Europeanization on Norwegian domestic politics.

Stephen Martin is Professor of Economics and at the Krannert School of Management, Purdue University. From July 2002 through July 2005 he was Faculty Director of the Technology Transfer Initiative at the Burton D. Morgan Center for Entrepreneurship, continuing until May 2006 with the Innovation Realization Laboratory. From August 2005--August 2008, he was Chairman of the Economics Policy Committee, a position that no longer exists but corresponded loosely to that of Department Chair. From January 2000 through the end of June 2002, he was Professor of Industrial Organization at the Faculty of Economics and Econometrics, University of Amsterdam (and from September 2000 to December 2001, Chairman of the Department of Finance & Organization). From September 1995 through December 31, 1999 he was Director of the Centre for Industrial Economics at the University of Copenhagen. From August 1996 through December 2004, he was co-Managing Editor of the International Journal of Industrial Organization. He was Professor at the European University Institute for 7 years, serving as Head of Department for 3 years. He was successively Assistant, Associate, and Full Professor at Michigan State University, having previously taken his Ph.D. in economics at M.I.T. after surviving 3 years in the U.S. Army. His first university degree was in mathematics from Michigan State University. His research interests include all areas of industrial economics, on which he has published widely, with current emphasis on comparative (U.S. and EU) competition policy, the impact of state aid on market performance, and the economics of business plan competitions. He has taught graduate and undergraduate courses in industrial economics, and supervised 17 Ph.D. dissertations to completion.

Thomas A. Miller is a Partner at Robins, Kaplan, Miller & Ciresi LLP and a member of the firm's Antitrust & Trade Regulation and Business Litigation Groups. Miller practices in the firm's Los Angeles, California, office where he counsels clients on a range of antitrust and competition issues and represents clients in class action and other complex litigation in federal and state courts. His antitrust experience includes a wide variety of issues on behalf of retailers, manufacturers, insurers, cable television companies, and oil companies. He and his partners represented the American Antitrust Institute, Consumer Federation of America and Consumers Union as amici curiae in the Ninth Circuit appeal of Cascade Health v. Peace Health. Miller received his JD from the University of Michigan Law School, and before joining Robins, Kaplan, Miller & Ciresi LLP he was a career Marine Corps officer and Judge Advocate (now retired).

Lawrence E. Mitchell is the author of The Speculation Economy: How Finance Triumphed Over Industry (2007), which was awarded ForeWord Magazine's 2008 Gold Medal for the Best Book in Business and Economics, and Corporate Irresponsibility: America's Newest Export (2001). He is Theodore Rinehart Professor of Business Law at The George Washington University, where he has taught for almost 20 years. Professor Mitchell has written extensively on matters of corporate governance, law, and ethics, among other things, and is a founder of the Progressive Corporate Law school, named after his 1995 anthology, Progressive Corporate Law. A graduate of Williams College and Columbia University Law School, Professor Mitchell practiced corporate law in New York from 1981 to 1987.

Hiromitsu Miyakawa is an attorney at Jones Day Tokyo office. He has broad experience in practicing antitrust law, including government investigations, mergers and acquisitions, litigations, and counseling, and has served as defense counsel in several major cartel prosecutions by the Japan Fair Trade Commission. Before joining Jones Day in 2006, Hiromitsu worked for 10 years with Kobayashi and Todo, one of the leading law firms in the Japanese antitrust law field. Hiromitsu graduated with a bachelor's degree from Keio University in 1992, and he received his LL.M. from the University of Virginia School of Law in 2002. In addition, he worked as a research fellow at the American Antitrust Institute in Washington, D.C. and wrote three articles published by the institute: "First Data/Concord Merger: A Background Briefing," "Promotion of Antitrust and the Public Interest Through Use of Cy Pres Distribution," and "Competitive Issues in the Dairy Industry: The Pending DFA/NDH/Hood Transaction." He is admitted to practice law in Japan and New York.

Mario Monti is the president of Università Commerciale Luigi Bocconi in Italy. Monti has been a member of the European Commission in charge of Competition since September from 1999 to 2005. In the previous Commission (1995-1999) he was in charge of the Single Market, Financial Services and Tax Policy. From 1989 to 1994 he had served as Rector of Milan's Bocconi University, of which he has been appointed President in 1994. At Bocconi he was professor of Economics and Director of the Institute of Economics. Born in Varese in 1943, he received a degree in economics at Bocconi University and pursued graduate studies at Yale University. He taught at the Universities of Trento and Turin before returning to his alma mater. He has also been a member of the board of directors of several companies. He has been contributing regularly to the Italian newspaper "Corriere della Sera" from 1978 to 1994. A collection of his essays was published under the title "Il governo dell'economia e della moneta. Contributi per un'Italia europea: 1970 - 1992" (Longanesi, 1992). He is the author of many publications, in particular on Monetary and financial economics, Fiscal policy and European integration. His recent publications include "Intervista sull'Italia in Europa" (Laterza, 1998). He served as President of SUERF (Société Universitaire Européenne de Recherches Financières) from 1982 to 1985 and of the Treasury Ministry's Committee on the Italian financial system which indicated the lines for the nation's financial policies for the Eighties. In the late 1980's he was a member of the Industry Ministry's Committee which drafted Italy's first law on Competition.

Paul Nihoul is a Professor of Antitrust Law and Policy at the University of Louvain, Belgium. He has held that position since 2001. Beforehand, he was a Professor, in the same field, at the University of Groningen, The Netherlands. Prior activities include: attorney and counsellor at law in the State of New York (Cleary, Gottlieb); Counsellor to the Minister of Finance - at the time securitization legislation was introduced in Belgium ...; Clerk to European Justices René Joliet and John Murray. Education: licence in philosophy and letters; licence in law; master in law (Harvard); doctorate in law."

Rudolph J.R. Peritz is a Professor of Law and the Director of IProgress Project at New York Law School. Professor Peritz has taught courses in Antitrust and Intellectual Property, as well as Contracts, Property, Cyberlaw, and Jurisprudence. Before entering the legal profession, he was a systems engineer and software programmer for mainframe computer systems. He is the author of two books: Competition Policy in America: History, Rhetoric, Law (Oxford University Press, 1996 & rev. ed. 2001) and U.S. Antitrust in Global Context (West Publishing, 2d ed. 2004) (with Eleanor Fox & Lawrence Sullivan), as well as a number of articles and papers. Professor Peritz is co-editor with Steven Anderman of the book series entitled New Horizons in Competition Policy and Economics for Edward Elgar Publishing, Ltd. The Journal of the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office Society recently published his article entitled “Freedom to Experiment: Toward a Concept of Inventor Welfare.” His recent scholarship investigates the competition policies within intellectual property regimes as well as intersections between intellectual property rights and antitrust law.

Russell Pittman is Director of Economic Research and Director of International Technical Assistance in the Economic Analysis Group, Antitrust Division, U.S. Department of Justice. He is also a visiting professor at the New Economic School (Moscow) and on the board of experts of the Economic Education and Research Consortium (Kyiv). He has published a large number of articles in scholarly journals; in addition to English language journals, his articles have been published in journals in Russia, Romania, Brazil, and other countries. Dr. Pittman consults regularly with antitrust enforcers and economic reformers in transition and developing economies. He served on: the core team of the World Development Report 2002, Building Institutions for Markets; the advisory group for the 2002 project of the Japan Bank for International Cooperation, Development Assistance Strategies in the 21st century; and the team of experts for the Russian Regulatory Reform Review carried out by the OECD and the European Conference of Ministers of Transport in 2003-2004, contributing as one of the three co-authors of its report, Regulatory Reform of Railways in Russia.

Douglas E. Rosenthal is a Partner in the Washington Office of Constantine|Cannon. He is internationally recognized for specializing in antitrust litigation and counseling and complex commercial litigation and arbitration. Rosenthal has 33 years of antitrust and international litigation experience, and in recent years has been increasingly involved in advising clients on the impact on their businesses of domestic and global competition laws and policy considerations. He has been a lead lawyer in numerous high stakes, high profile, politically challenging, international antitrust and commercial matters. He is a member of the advisory boards of the Bureau of National Affairs; Antitrust and Trade Regulation Reporter; The ICC Commission on Competition; The American Antitrust Institute; the George Washington International Law Review; Working Group of the Sedona Conference: The Role of Economics In Antitrust: Best Practices.

Franz Jürgen Säcker is a professor at Free University of Berlin and director of the Institute for German and European Economic, Competition, and Regulation Law. Scholarship of the Studienstiftung des deutschen Volkes, 1966 Doctorate (Dr. iur.) in Law of the University of Cologne and 1971 Doctorate (Dr. rer. pol.) in Economic Sciences. Offers of chairs at the Universities of Berlin, Augsburg, Bielefeld, Innsbruck, Tübingen, Hamburg, Kiel. 1971 Full Professor at the Free University of Berlin. 1973-1984 Judge of the Cartel Senate of the High Court Berlin (Kammergericht). Since 1994 Director of the Institute for German and European Economic, Competition and Regulation Law at the Free University of Berlin and Executive Director of the Institute for Energy and Regulation Law Berlin e.V.. 1997 Doctorate honoris causa (h.c.) of the Russian Academy of Science, Institute for Law and State.

Ewoud C. Sakkers has been with the Directorate-General for Competition of the European Commission since 1997. During his first 3½ years in DG Competition he worked in the so-called Merger Task Force. Since the beginning of 2001 he works in the area of antitrust enforcement in DG Competition, where is a Head of Unit in the Cartels Directorate. Prior to joining the Competition DG, Sakkers worked in the trade policy department of the European Commission, on anti-dumping and anti-subsidy issues, where he started in 1993. Before that, he was in-house legal counsel with KPN, the Dutch telecommunications company. Sakkers is a lawyer by education.

After spending an initial year of (undergraduate) university education in the U.S., Sakkers obtained a law degree at the University of Utrecht in the Netherlands in 1990, where he specialised in Dutch civil and European law. In 1991 he obtained an LLM degree in European law from the College of Europe in Bruges, Belgium. His publications include a major chapter on cartels (389 pages) with F. Arbault in Faull and Niekpay Eds, The EC law of Competition. (Oxford University Press, 2007) He is also co-author with J. Ysewyn of the looseleaf European Cartel Digest, with Kluwer Law International (2008).

Sheridan Scott is a Partner at Bennet Jones LLP in Canada. She was Canada's Commissioner of Competition from 2004 to 2009. Scott advises clients on competition matters and competition-related public policy initiatives. As the head of the Competition Bureau, Scott administered and enforced the Competition Act. She was Chair of the Steering Group of the International Competition Network (ICN) and led the Bureau's participation at the OECD's Competition Committee. Prior to her appointment with the Competition Bureau, she was Chief Regulatory Officer of Bell Canada, and held senior positions at the CBC and CRTC. In 2008, Scott was recognized at the Canadian New Media Awards for her contributions to the new media industry, and in 2005, was named one of Canada's 100 Most Powerful Women by the Women's Executive Network.

Howard Shelanski is the Director of the Berkeley Center for Law and Technology. He received his J.D. from Boalt Hall in 1992 and his doctorate in economics from UC Berkeley in 1993. After graduating from Boalt, he clerked for Judge Stephen F. Williams of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit, Judge Louis H. Pollak of the U.S. District Court in Philadelphia, and Justice Antonin Scalia of the United States Supreme Court. Before joining the Boalt faculty, Professor Shelanski practiced law with the Washington, D.C. firm of Kellogg Huber Hansen Todd & Evans. Professor Shelanski has twice taken leave from teaching to work in government. From 1999-2000 he served as chief economist of the Federal Communications Commission and from 1998-1999 he served as a senior economist for the President's Council of Economic Advisers at the White House. Professor Shelanski's teaching and research focus on antitrust, regulation, and telecommunications policy. In 2004, he received the Rutter Award for Teaching Distinction.

Shanker Singham is a Partner at Squire Sanders & Dempsey LLP. Shanker A. Singham focuses his practice on the areas of antitrust and international trade law including WTO and market access issues. He advises global companies and national government on trade and competition issues. Singham is both a US and European competition and trade lawyer and began his career in London with Cameron McKenna. Singham was an issue leader on the Transatlantic Business Dialogue, with responsibility for EU-US partnering. He is chairman of the International Roundtable on Trade and Competition Policy, Inc, a not-for-profit foundation dedicated to ensuring a better understanding of trade and competition issues by governments around the world. He has lectured on competition and trade issues around the world. He has also taught trade negotiators from around the Western Hemisphere a course on international trade, through the Summit of the Americas Center at Florida International University. A frequent speaker and author, Singham has addressed Wilton Park Conference, Commonwealth Trade Forum (University of London), the International Business Leaders' Forum, Royal Institute of International Affairs, the Inter-American Dialogue, University of London, Euro Finance Conference, Oxford Analytica International Conference and the World Economic Forum.

Daniel Sokol is an Assistant Professor at the University of Florida Levin College of Law. His recent research focuses on comparative and international antitrust issues. He is active as a non-governmental advisor to the ICN and has provided technical assistance and capacity building both in country and in training sessions to both antitrust enforcers and utilities regulators. He also has taught at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Missouri. This summer Sokol will teach antitrust at the Catholic University of Chile.

Gary R. Spratling is a partner in the San Francisco office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher and co-chair of the firm's Antitrust and Trade Regulation Practice Group. Spratling's practice focuses on international antitrust issues and draws upon his years of experience as a U.S. government official working on policy and enforcement with antitrust authorities worldwide. Spratling's global expertise regarding the anti-cartel enforcement practices of every major competition enforcement authority, and the development of integrated international strategies in response thereto, has guided numerous successful representations of organizations and individuals facing exposure in multiple jurisdictions. Before entering private practice, Spratling was a U.S. Department of Justice prosecutor for 28 years, serving most recently as the Deputy Assistant Attorney General responsible for investigating and prosecuting international cartels and other criminal violations of U.S. antitrust laws. He was the highest ranking career lawyer in the Antitrust Division. In addition to receiving nearly every major award given by the Department of Justice, Spratling is a two-time recipient of the Presidential Rank Award (Presidents Bush and Clinton) – the highest honor conferred on federal government executives – and was the recipient of the Antitrust Lawyer of the Year Award from the State Bar of California. Spratling has worked extensively with foreign antitrust authorities on policy issues and enforcement practices. He organized and led the first international workshop on cartel enforcement attended by officials from nearly 30 countries and the E.U.

Ronald A. Stern is the vice president and senior competition counsel for the General Electric Company. Ron received his A.B. from Brown University in 1971 and his J.D. from Harvard Law School in 1974. He clerked after law school, first for Judge Harold Leventhal (U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit) from 1974 to 1975, and then for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart from 1975 to 1976. He joined the firm of Hughes Hubbard & Reed in 1976, leaving in 1978 to serve as Special Assistant to the Assistant Attorney General, Criminal Division, U.S. Dept. of Justice for two years. He rejoined Hughes Hubbard in 1980 and became partner in 1981. He joined Arnold & Porter as a partner in 1988 and moved to GE in 1991 as Senior Counsel-Antitrust based in Washington, D.C. He became a GE Vice President in 1997. Ron has been active in a broad range of international competition law matters on behalf of General Electric. In addition, he has served as a member of the Defense Science Board Task Force on Antitrust Aspects of Defense Industry Consolidation and as a non-governmental advisor to the International Competition Network.

Yoshizumi Tojo is a professor of international economic law at Rikkyo University in Tokyo, where he teaches WTO law and comparative competition law. His field of research includes competition, trade, telecommunications, and migration policy. He served as a member in several governmental commissions including JFTC Policy Review Commission and Study Group on Reform of Postal and Courier Services Regulations at Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications. Tojo graduated with a B.A. and M.A. degrees from University of Tokyo and joined the college of Law and Politics at Rikkyo University in 1995. He stayed in Chicago as a visiting professor at Center for East Asian Studies, University of Chicago from 1999 to 2001.

Randolph Tritell is the Director of the Federal Trade Commission's Office of International Affairs. He is responsible for coordinating the FTC's international antitrust, consumer protection, and technical assistance policies and the FTC's involvement in cases that raise international issues. He represents the Federal Trade Commission in multilateral fora including the International Competition Network, in which he co-chairs the Unilateral Conduct Working Group, and the OECD Competition Committee. He is also responsible for the FTC's negotiation and implementation of bilateral international cooperation agreements and competition and consumer protection provisions of US free trade agreement agreements. Prior to joining the Federal Trade Commission in 1998, Tritell was a partner with the New York-based law firm of Weil, Gotshal & Manges LLP. Following six years in the firm's New York office, in 1992 he opened the firm's Brussels office where he practiced European Community and international competition law. Tritell began his career at the Federal Trade Commission, serving as a staff attorney in the Bureau of Consumer Protection (1978-81), Assistant to the Director of the Bureau of Consumer Protection (1981-83), Attorney Advisor to Commissioner Terry Calvani (1983-85), and Executive Assistant to the Chairman (1985-86). Tritell obtained his law degree in 1977 from the University of Pennsylvania Law School, where he was an Editor of the Law Review. He is a 1974 Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the State University of New York at Stony Brook. Tritell serves on the Council of the American Bar Association's Section of Antitrust Law and on the Steering Group of Section of International Law's Antitrust Committee. He is a frequent lecturer and author, particularly on international antitrust issues, and has taught Federal Trade Commission law in the Master of Laws program of New York University Law School.

Arthur Wilmarth is a professor of law at George Washington University. Professor Wilmarth joined the faculty in 1986, following 11 years in private law practice. Prior to joining the Law School, he was a partner in the Washington, D.C., office of Jones, Day, Reavis & Pogue. Professor Wilmarth teaches courses in banking law, contracts, corporations, and American constitutional history. He is the author of numerous articles in the fields of banking law and American constitutional history, and co-author of a book on corporate law. In 2005, the American College of Consumer Financial Services Lawyers awarded him its prize for the best law review article published in the field of consumer financial services law during the previous year. Professor Wilmarth has testified before committees of the U.S. Congress, the California legislature, and the D.C. Council on bank regulatory issues. During 2008-09, Professor Wilmarth served as chair of the Section on Financial Institutions and Consumer Financial Services of the Association of American Law Schools, after serving as the section's chair-elect and annual program chair during 2007-08. He is a member of the editorial board of the Journal of Banking Regulation, published by Palgrave Macmillan Ltd. During 1992-94, while on leave of absence from the Law School, Professor Wilmarth practiced law as a partner in the Lancaster, Pennsylvania, office of Barley, Snyder, Senft & Cohen.

Charles Wright, a partner at Siskinds, was admitted to the Ontario Bar in 1995. He received his education at Indiana University (B.A.B.S., 89), the University of North Carolina (Chapel Hill) Visiting Student 1992-93 and the University of Toronto LL.B., 1993. Wright practises exclusively in the area of mass tort and class action litigation. A co-author of Class Actions Law and Practice (Butterworths 1999), he speaks frequently at public and legal forums on class action litigation. Wright has been involved in virtually every price-fixing cartel case that has been litigated in Canada, including the vitamins, air cargo, hydrogen peroxide, and chocolate cartel cases. He is a member of the Advisory Board of the American Antitrust Institute. Always an avid tennis player, Wright has twice won national junior doubles championships, won a silver medal at the 1997 Maccabiah Games in Israel, and was a member of the All-Big Ten Conference tennis teams in 1987 and 1988.