

AAI INVITATIONAL SYMPOSIUM

▪ Systems Competition ▪

Thank You for Supporting Today's Program

ARGUENDO
FINANCIAL AND ECONOMIC CONSULTING

Arguendo Financial and Economic Consulting is a litigation and regulatory support consulting firm combining the best of high-profile case and project experience with state-of-the-art data analysis and quality control. Arguendo's capabilities include antitrust, regulation, finance, intellectual property, public procurement and general damages. Arguendo senior staff have consulted and testified in matters before state and federal regulatory bodies and courts. Arguendo has continuing relationships with prominent academics who are experienced expert witnesses. Arguendo senior staff have extensive case experience in litigation and regulation and hold undergraduate and advanced degrees from Harvard, MIT, Columbia, and UC Berkeley. Arguendo Project Managers are experienced in supporting clients with expert reports, data and policy analysis and process management. Arguendo senior staff continue to develop their capabilities in data analysis, quality control and economic analysis through teaching, independent research and activity in professional associations. In response to attorneys' requests, Arguendo has developed a case exploration service, which provides lower cost preliminary analysis in a variety of areas.

••• BATES • WHITE •••

Bates White is a consulting firm offering services in economics, finance, and business strategy to leading law firms, FORTUNE 500 companies, and government agencies. The firm's antitrust practice is recognized for its application of advanced economic, financial, and econometric theory to the analysis of liability and damages. These applications have arisen in a number of legal settings including: cartels, litigation and agency review for mergers and acquisitions, monopolization, conspiracies in restraint of trade, exclusive dealing, and tying arrangements. Bates White maintains a network of relationships with economic thought leaders and industry experts to complement its in-house expertise and to provide clients with the latest empirical and theoretical advancements. Emphasizing a customized approach and a complete understanding of each client's challenges, Bates White brings clarity to complex issues to help clients make more informed decisions and optimize bottom-line results. For more information, visit www.bateswhite.com.

CCIA is a nonprofit membership organization for a wide range of companies in the computer, Internet, information technology, and telecommunications industries, represented by their senior executives. Created over three decades ago, CCIA promotes open markets, open systems, open networks, and full, fair, and open competition. CCIA serves as an additional, and sometimes the only, eyes, ears, and voice, in Washington for our members. Our goal is to proactively protect and promote their legitimate interests, and to advance the broad common interests of our industries.

CCIA's structure and wide range of expertise allow the association to be highly responsive to our members' needs, assessing and shaping legislative and regulatory activity in collaboration with executives from member companies. CCIA strives for a detailed understanding of the business operations for our members. Such understanding is vital in translating their technology, business, and policy needs into action. CCIA's member companies vary widely in size and operate both domestically and globally. Members include computer and communications companies, equipment manufacturers, software developers, service providers, re-sellers, integrators, and financial service companies. Together they employ almost one million workers and generate nearly $250 billion in annual revenue.

The Quality Parts Coalition represents the interests of the independent parts industry, repairers, insurers, consumers and seniors. It is the goal of the Quality Parts Coalition to develop and secure a permanent legislative change to U.S. design patent law to preserve competition and to protect the consumer's right to benefit from quality, lower-cost alternative replacement parts. To learn more about the Quality Parts Coalition, please visit www.qualitypartscoalition.com.

Nathan Associates is recognized nationally as a leading source of expert economic, financial, and statistical analysis and testimony in legal and regulatory proceedings. For decades Nathan Associates has been researching and analyzing liability and damage issues and providing expert opinions and testimony. Nathan Associates' staff and affiliated academic and industry experts focus efficiently on the essence of anti-trust issues and problems and are adept at communicating complex concepts both orally and in writing. Clients have included numerous law firms; federal, state, and local government agencies; foreign governments, international lending institutions; large and small businesses; and industry and trade associations. When a Nathan Associates expert testifies, you can be confident of the expert's knowledge, thoroughness, and integrity.